Understanding Shame

Shame is a universal experience and a silent epidemic that many do not understand, and most do not want to talk about. It is a powerful emotional experience that often goes unaddressed and can impact nearly every aspect of a person's life. Because clients will rarely acknowledge or understand their shame, clinicians have the responsibility of knowing how to recognize and bring shame into the therapeutic process.

For rules governing continuing education, participants should contact their respective regulatory boards.

Kansas Behavioral Sciences Regulatory Board does not require pre-approval of CE programs and does not even offer an approval process for most professions. They will consider CE programs that cover content specific to each profession's practice, skills, ethics, and knowledge. Additional information is provided on their website under each profession, typically in the FAQ sections.

Missouri Division of Professional Registration does not require continuing education providers or programs to be approved prior to the event. They will accept continuing education that is relevant to each profession (i.e. for professional counselors content must be primarily related to counseling, for psychologists content must be mostly psychological, and so on). Additional information is provided on their website.
